

Example: Note Taking Template

Main Topic for Research: Biography of Chan Ho Goh
Notes below are related to Subtopic: Early Years
Reference Title and Pages Used: Famous Dancers of Canada*
Pages 188 and 189
Author(s) and/or Editors: Mary Simpson
Publisher: Write-a-lot Publishers, Canada
Publish Location & Copyright Date: Vancouver, BC, 1998
Internet Address: Not Applicable

Subtopic	Details
Birth	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- February 1, 1969- Beijing, China
Family	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- parents were professional dancers with Central Ballet of China- grandfather a famous painter- uncle a famous choreographer
Childhood	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- grew up watching her parents dance- wanted to dance professionally well- parents said it was too difficult- moved with family to Canada when she was eight- didn't speak English, school was difficult- took piano lessons, danced at parents' studio, the Goh Ballet Academy- awkward at first but became more graceful as she got older- parents finally let her pursue her dream of being a dancer- spotted by legendary dancer Anton Dolin – said she would be a beautiful dancer

Summary of Notes from Above

Chan Hon Goh was born in Beijing China on February 1, 1969. There were a lot of artistic people in her family: her parents were professional dancers, her grandfather a famous painter, and her uncle a famous choreographer. Chan moved with her family to Canada when she was eight. She continued to dance and got better as she grew older. She convinced her parents to let her pursue her dream of one day doing it professionally. A famous dancer named Anton Dolin spotted Chan and agreed she had the right stuff to do it.